

2007 Google Global Community Scholarship for the Grace Hopper Celebration of Women in Computing

As part of Google's ongoing commitment to encouraging women to excel in computing and technology, we are pleased to announce the 2007 Google Global Community Scholarship to help students attend the Grace Hopper Celebration of Women in Computing Conference in Orlando, Florida from Oct. 17 - 20, 2007.

Conference details can be found at <http://www.gracehopper.org/>

A group of female students outside of the USA will be chosen from the applicant pool. We encourage women from throughout the world to apply. Each selected student will receive up to $2,500 USD for airfare, hotel, conference registration and other travel requirements.

Eligibility Requirements

Candidates must be:

- Enrolled full-time in their undergraduate or graduate study in a university outside of the United States
- In Computer Science, Computer Engineering, or related technical field major
- Maintaining a strong academic background with demonstrated leadership ability

How To Apply

Visit the link below to complete the online application:

<https://parasol.tamu.edu/celebrate/applicant/>

Please mention that you are applying for the Google Global Community Scholarship in the first sentence of the essay portion of your application.

Required materials for online submission will include:

- Name & Email
- Current and permanent address & phone number
- University name, faculty member contact information
- Answer to one essay question
- Resume/CV
- At least 1 letter of reference

All applications must be submitted by Monday, June 11, 2007. Results will be announced by email in early August 2007.

Please contact gracehopper@google.com for any questions or if you are interested in submitting your resume and transcript to supplement your online submission.

ANITA BORG INSTITUTE
FOR WOMEN AND TECHNOLOGY